The Gospel of this penultimate Sunday of the liturgical year presents to us Jesus' discourse on the end of time. Jesus pronounces it in front of the temple of Jerusalem, a building admired by the people for its grandeur and splendour. But He prophesied that of all the beauty of the temple, that grandeur, "there will not be left here one stone upon another that will not be thrown down". The destruction of the temple foretold by Jesus is not so much a figure of the end of history as of the purpose of history. Indeed, before the listeners who want to know how and when these signs will happen, Jesus responds with the typical apocalyptic language of the Bible.

He uses two apparently contrasting images: the first is a series of frightening events: catastrophes, wars, famines, riots and persecutions; the other is reassuring: "Not a hair of your head will perish". First of all there is a realistic look at history, marked by calamities and also by violence, by traumas that wound creation, our common home, and also the human family that lives there, and the Christian community itself. Think of the many wars today, so many calamities today. The second image – enclosed in Jesus' reassurance – tells us the attitude that the Christian must adopt in living this story, characterized by violence and adversity.

And what is the attitude of the Christian? It is the attitude of hope in God, which allows us not to be overwhelmed by tragic events. Indeed, they are an "opportunity to bear witness". Christ's disciples cannot remain slaves to fears and anxieties; instead they are called to live history, to stem the destructive force of evil, with the certainty that the Lord's action of goodness is always accompanied by His providential and reassuring tenderness.

This is the eloquent sign that the Kingdom of God is coming to us, that is, that the realization of the world as God wants it is approaching. It is He, the Lord, who guides our existence and knows the ultimate purpose of things and events.

Gathering around the Lord's table each week - we celebrate the fact that we are the People of God, his chosen ones, those whom he has called to be his hands and voice. To help us live this life we listen each week to the Word of God giving us a glimpse of the world God intends for us, and challenging us to live up to our calling, and each week we are strengthened with the food of life to enable us to be disciples. Today we hear the story of the beginning of Jesus' ministry, he came proclaiming the good news, healing the sick and calling people by name to be his followers.

"The life in the Spirit, expressed in the sacraments, cannot be suffocated by a bureaucracy that prevents access to the grace of the Spirit, the initiator of the conversion of heart. How many times we ourselves, priests or bishops, create so much bureaucracy to give a sacrament, to welcome people, that people say: "No I do not like this," and leave and often they do not see in us the power of the Spirit who regenerate, who makes us new. So we have the huge responsibility for proclaiming Christ, crucified and risen, enlivened by the breath of the Spirit of love." Pope Francis, Rome, 27th October 2021

In Flanders fields the poppies blow
Between the crosses, row on row,
That mark our place; and in the sky
The larks, still bravely singing, fly
Scarce heard amid the guns below. John McRae
